DEDICATION

We, the Senior Class of nineteen hundred and forty-eight, dedicate the "Concordian" to our teachers who have guided us thru' the wonderful daze during our twelve years.

Also to our many friends we leave this as a pleasant memory of our "Golden School Daze".

FACULTY

OUR FACULTY

To begin with, our principal, Mr. C. O. Duker, is a pretty competent leader. He teaches Commercial Geography and Law, Bookkeeping, and General Business. And you can just ask any of the eighth graders how well he teaches them their history lessons.

Then there's Mr. Dale Wicoff, the fellow who was willed the "briar" pipe by the Seniors. Make good use of it! Mr. Wicoff teaches all the boys some knowledge in Vocational Agriculture and we're sure they'll all grow up to make excellent farmers.

Mrs. Ruth Butler, who teaches Biology to the Freshmen, is very proud of her class who always take such good care of her. She also teaches the process of homemaking to all girls who join the throng.

Mr. Roy Maxwell teaches Geography and Math. Also, he teaches Algebra to the modest Freshmen; but much pleasure is gained when he teaches Physics to the Seniors because he is such a good artist.

Mrs. Elizabeth Shull, teaches history, Government-Economics, and Latin and she has a very up-and-coming Physical-Education Class. They participate in tourney's between classes and they can play ball, too.

If, in the next few years, anyone should hear of a famous singer going to the Metropolitan Opera or joining one of the networks, they'll know it's the work of Mrs. Mildred Leever, who teaches voice and orchestra in our school. She has also directed Operetta's that have been very successful.

Mrs. Martin teaches history, English and typing. She just started with our Faculty this year and we want to keep her for a while because she has won a definite place in our school and our hearts.

Last, but definitely not least, is Mr. James Tatlock, who also started as a new member of our Faculty this year. He teaches health and safety, Physical-Education, English and he is our coach. He is sponsor of the Senior Class and he directed their class play very successfully during this school term.

This is the fundamental duties and part that these guides played and will continue to play in our daily lives and we should and will grow up to be better citizens as a result of the guiding hand they have given us.

CLASS HISTORY

Way back, the class of 47-48 started with, among others, Nancy Monroe, Luella Washler, Marlyn Wade, Donald Inlow, Marjorie Bleeks, Margaret Wade and Charles Freeburn. These seven kids have stuck by Old St. Joe High and this year are going out into the world with the rest of the class.

Our first and second grade teacher was Miss Violet May; third grade was taught by Mrs. Portia Houge, and our fourth grade teacher was Harriet Oberlin. Mr. Roy Maxwell taught us when we were in the fifth-sixth grade. Also, Joan Trenary joined our class in that year.

Jane Bragg took up the problems of our seventh year with us. Our teachers during that year were: Miss Carey, Mr. Garman, Miss Duffy, and Mr. Sharp.

Our music teachers have been Mr. Woodcox, Mrs. Arnold, Mrs. Voss, and during our last four years, Mrs. Leever has conducted our orchestra and our warbling. She's done a good job, too!

Carol Rosenbury joined our class in 1944 and we also gained Mr. C. O. Duker, as our principal in that year. Our teachers were: Mr. Sharp, Miss Pryor, Mr. Maxwell and Mrs. Lucille Wicoff.

Our freshmen year was full of excitement for the thirty-six students who started the new year and our sponsor, Mr. Roy Maxwell. Alas! we were not to graduate with the thirty-six. During the first three years, we lost: Gerald Haifley, DuWayne Creager, Josephine Baughman, Charles Fulmer, Lila Jean Seigman, Clarence Brown, Patricia Chorpenning, Kenneth Miller, Edward Carnahan, Weldon Cook, George Mansfield, Audrie Stewart, Bonnie Barnett, Roger Hallard and Bonnie Noble.

Guiding our footsteps during our sophomore year as our sponsor, was Mr. Dale Wicoff--we particularly remember one of our class parties at Jane Bragg's.

Throughout our junior year we could always see that bright smile that Mrs. Butler wears even today. She helped us in our financial problems and under her supervision we edited the school paper, "The Torchlight". And also for our banquet, she planned and worked with us and everything turned our fine.

Now, we, the Senior Class, are nearing the day when these "Good Ole School Days" will no longer be a reality but only a memory to the twenty-three who will graduate on the twenty-first day of May in this year of nineteen hundred and forty-eight.

CLASS PROPHECY

I, a strayed old schoolteacher, decided to take a summer vacation and go back to St. Joe, the old home town. After buying a ticket from the "Fly and Die Airline" I boarded the plane where much to my surprise, I met Mr. Tatlock, who told me he was now the president of the "Better Basketball Boys Association" and the head coach of The Concord Twp. University.

The mechanic started the motors, and then Glen McClish, the ace pilot, who has flown 20,000 miles with only 50 accidents, climbed into the plane. The stewardess came to the door and cautioned us not to fasten our safety belts, as we might have to jump at any moment.

I tuned in the television radio set in the plane and listened to Carol Rosenbury's all girl orchestra. One of the highlights of the program was a drum solo by Maxine Brunson, the hot snare drummer.

Arriving in St. Joe on Monday evening, I stepped off the plane and met none other than Howard Miller, the basketball coach at St. Joe. Howard was the star player on his basketball team in college, never missing a shot in over 600 games. As we were talking, we heard a fire siren blowing; past us, flying low, went Fire Chief Keith Wagner at the wheel of the hook and ladder truck. Keith is such a fast driver that once, going to a fire, the motor fell out, and Keith coasted 50 miles to the fire.

Following the fire truck, I learned that the fire was at Klink's Kandy Kannery, the biggest enterprise in St. Joe. It is reported that Mr. Klink first started making candy after a party, at which he got his hair full of taffy.

After my unseccessful attempt to locate the class of '48, I decided to take the next train home. Wanting to have a little snack on the return trip, I dropped in at "Freeburn's Super Super Market" (and I do mean SUPER). Chuck told me he had so much business that he had to engage Isabell Baker as his personal secretary.

On my way to the train, I met Gerald Swander, commonly known as "The Lady Killer". He told me he was in hiding and was going to stay there as this is leap year.

My train is about to leave--I'll get on. Why, there's Nancy Monroe! Nancy tells me she has only been to Reno 7 times to regain her maiden name. She's now on her way to California to take a well-deserved vacation. Nancy told me that the former Luella Washler and Jane Bragg are now happily married and have very wealthy husbands.

As we approached our destination, a plane zoomed crazily over the train. Nancy said it was Marlyn Wade. She tried for a license but the instructor said she wasn't "Air Minded".

Well, if it isn't George Burns, the conductor. George boasted what a good engineer the train had. I found later it was Don Inlow. The companies only objection to Don is that he refuses to make a run without his secretary, Marjorie Bleeks. George also told me the president of the railroad is Patty Plummer, who inherited it from a rich uncle.

Suddenly the train gave an awful lurch and every passenger, including me, was thrown out in the aisle with the luggage. I struggled to get up while Dorothy Walters, eager to apply her first aid lessons, was typing my arms in bandages. Incidentally, she was so good in Health and Safety class that she was appointed to a job teaching ambulance drivers first aid. Dorothy told me later that the accident was caused by Margaret Wade, now a famous movie star, who had stalled her car on the tracks.

Passing through Arizona, I was told that the famous Gerald Krafft, was making millions. He found a way to raise Penguins on the desert.

Looking out the window, I saw a sign that read "Lola Mae Davis's All Girl Basketball Team" is playing "Johanna Dulle's World Champions". That should be a real game. The teams have made so much money that they are going together and build a gymnasium that will hold 16,000,000 people.

Well, there's the class of '48! Who would have believed it?

--Kathleen Smith

CLASS WILL

We, the Senior Class of nineteen hundred and forty-eight of St. Joe High School in St. Joe, Indiana, about to pass on into the deep future, being of soundless minds and faulty memories, do hereby will our abilities, personal properties, knowledge and shortcomings to-wit:

I, Margaret Wade, will my long hair to Joan Shuff; also my ability to skip school and get away with it to Charlene Arnett.

I, Gerald Swander, will my right to park on a lonely road with a girl to Raymond Murphy.

I, Marlyn Wade, will to Charlet Jones and her boy friend a new parking place outside of the streets of St. Joe.

I, George Burns, will to Wayne Hanna my side kick to use on Donnie Miller.

I, Johanna Dulle, will to Deloris Keller my ability to chew gum; also my ability to get a boy friend from the big city (Fort Wayne). Not everybody can do that with so many other appointments and engagements.

I, Lola Mae Davis, will to Donnie Miller, my ability to play basketball in girl's physical ed class.

I, Gerald Krafft, will to Joe Harter the right to drive a spiffy, windowless, doorless, seatless, backless, truckless Ford in exchange for his jitney.

I, Dorothy Walters, will to Roberta Klink my ability to roll my big brown eyes. Also my Indian talk to anyone who needs a laugh.

I, Keith Wagner, will my right in the center of the road to Don (Mose) Yieser.

I, Maxine Brunson, will some of my height to Janice Shuff and Wayne Hanna providing they share it.

I, Glen McClish, will my smoking habit and my way with women to Don Yieser.....Also, to Jack Bowser, my ability to sing.

I, Patty Plummer, will to Anna Johnston some ice creepers so she can stand up; also to Donnie Miller, some shoe soles so he won't have to run around 6th period study halls barefooted.

I, Joe Klink, will my ability to skip school and get away with it to "Bub" Lochner.

I, Jane Bragg, will my ability to stay up late at night and appear the next day with bagless eyes to Kathleen Smith; also to Leona Drake, my school books so she may continue the conversation in them.

I, Chuck Freeburn, will to "Bub" Lochner a good strong chain to fasten to his billfold. Also to Junior Bassett my way with women.

I, Marjorie Bleeks, will to Roberta Klink my driving ability, but with my ability you want to watch out for speed limits.

I, Donald Inlow, will my ability to play cards (especially poker) on school time to Edward Wade.

I, Carol Rosenbury, will my musical ability and my ability to wear a ring on my left hand to Kathleen Smith.

I, Luella Washler, will to Ruth Creager my freckles.

I, Howard Miller, will my ability to get along with women, plus the teachers to Bob Walters.

I, Nancy Monroe, will my ability to type 21 words per minute in next year's typing class to Charlene Arnett.

I, Joan Trenary, will a new pair of shoe soles to Kathryn Likes and Charlet

Jones so they can continue walking up and down the hall.

I, Isabell Baker, will my ability to draw girls to Junior Bassett.

We, Jane Bragg and Joan Trenary, will our close friendship to Deloris Keller and Edward Wade.

We, Isabell Baker and Nancy Monroe, will to Charlene Arnett and Leona Drake, our front seats in Physics Class. Take advantage of them, girls.

We, Howard Miller and George Burns, will to Wayne Hanna and Don Miller our favorite nickname "Mutt and Jeff".

We, the Senior Class, will to Mrs. Shull, a class who always carry pencils and paper to class. Also an unbreakable desk top, designed to withstand unexpected and severe blows made by books.

We, the Senior Class will to Mr. Maxwell, a perfect class of boys who never wear those "Chessy Cat" grins. Also, a bookcase especially designed for Senior Boys Physics books.

We, the Senior Class, will to Mrs. Martin, a typing class of boys who never talk back. Also a class who average at least 85 words a minute.

We, the Senior Class, will to Mrs. Butler a freshmen biology class who jump to help her up when she falls.

We, the Senior Class, will to Mr. Wicoff, a good briar pipe.

We, the Senior Class, will to Mr. Duker, a new sweater preferably of another color. Also a pipe, cap and spy glass so that he may carry on his detective work.

We, the Senior Class, will, lastly but not least of the teachers, to our sponsor, Mr. Tatlock, an excellent play cast who come to practice on time every evening and get down to business like we did. Example: "The Lady Killer."

We, the Senior Girls, hereby will it the privilege and duty of the girls in the class of '49 and each year following to keep up our restroom project that we worked on so hard for the betterment of our school. Please carry on the tradition.

We, the Senior Class, will to the Junior Class as a whole, the ability to throw snowballs and get away with it. Also our dignity and sophistication? (Note Question Mark).

And now, as we sign, seal, and stamp this unlegally we hope that it has caused no hard feelings as the above is all in fun in our last year of school.

Signed
The Senior Class

Charlet Jones . . . . . .Vice-President
Leona Drake . . . . . Secretary
Deloris Keller . . . . . Treasurer
Mrs. Ruth Butler . . . . . Class Advisor

Our first social function of the year was a hayride on the evening of October 9th. We had plenty of fragrantly fresh hay, a wonderful moon, a careful tractor driver, lots of apples, cool breezes, and finally a blazing fire where we toasted weiners, marshmallows, and shins.

On November 21, the class sponsored a box social in the gymnasium. Concessions of bingo, penny pitching, fortunes, fish pond, basketball throw, and a cake walk were enjoyed by the audience. The boxes were auctioned by Mr. John Haverstock, also a duck was auctioned and sold to Mrs. Ruth Butler. Chances were sold on a 21 lb. turkey which went to Mrs. Catherine Bowser. Mr. Collins furnished the evening's music.

We have served the public with pop and popcorn at all basketball games; made shakers for exhibition of school spirit at the county tourney; and sold tiger pins for the sectional tournament held in February. All of the junior boys are a part of the basketball team and most of the junior girls are home economics majors.

We anticipate the arrival of the class rings within the month of February. We, as usual, can hardly wait until they come.

The class presented Mrs. Butler a beautiful gift at Christmas, when we met for our class exchange in the home economics room.

Our final school function and possibly the social highlight of the year will be held in the month of May in the form of a farewell banquet given in honor of the senior class with the seniors and the faculty as guests. This event is usually a formal affair consisting of a swell, interesting time, rollicking activities and a dinner, music, flowers, and some form of entertainment following the dinner.

The Sophomore Class was organized in late September. The officers are as follows:

Audrie Trenary	President
Ervin Fetters	Vice-President
Betty Sipe	Secretary and Treasurer
Lora Reas	Reporter
Mrs. Shull	Sponsor

The Sophomore Class is sponsoring the school paper "Sophomore Gazette". The paper staff is as follows:

Editor-In-Chief	DuWayne Richmond
Editor	Gloria Ferguson
Society	Joyce Woodcox, Joan Curie and Jim Warstler
Sports	Jack Kees, Betty Sipe, Lora Reas and John Keesler
Jokes	Ervin Fetters, Amy Wagner and Barbara Harris
Gossip	Audrie Trenary, Paula Harts and Phyllis Surfus
Art Editor	Maurice Houser, Wendell Krafft and Berdetta Burns
School Personality	Anita McMaken, Roger Inlow, and Bernice Burns
Class News	Sponsor
Cover	Jack Hughes

A high school Sadie Hawkins Day party sponsored by the sophomore class was held in the Gymnasium November 15th at 8:00 P. M. The party began by the shooting of baskets and round dancing. Then later several other games were played; everyone took part. After the games everyone went through the fun house. Following the fun house Mr. Duker drew names from boxes to choose the Lil' Abner and Daisy Mae for the evening. They were Amy Wagner and Jack Hughes. They led the grand march into the first square dances. The square dances to follow were: Daisy Mae's Choice, Grand Right and Left, Abner's Choice, The Moonlight, all followed by couples. The party was quite a success.

The Freshman Class appointed officers and organized their class in September. The officers are as follows:

Francis Dulle	President
Donald Warstler	Vice-President
Donald Hull	Secretary and Treasurer
Mr. Maxwell	Sponsor

On September 24th the freshmen had "the time of their lives." If you can't guess what happened just ask any of the seniors. They usually have a "big" hand in the goings on.

Initiation Day is a grand day for any senior but the freshmen always get a bang out of it! All the freshmen wore fitting clothing and their make-up matched perfectly.

Somehow the freshmen always found themselves on their knees every time a senior came into sight. The seniors wore ribbons of purple and white satin, so the freshmen had no difficulty in recognizing their friends!

That night, however, the fun really started. The freshmen met upstairs in Room B and were painted up like Indians and after being blindfolded were led downstairs "from the frying pan into the fire." Then they were: given a nice stick of gum; walked through sawdust and cinders, barefooted; run across a ladder, barefooted; swung til' they got nice and dizzy; presented sawdust which was put down their backs; fed hot peppers and celery with limberger cheese; allowed to feel liver; taken up on the stage, shocked and rolled down a ladder, in a barrel; fed spaghetti; paddled with a big paddle; fed mashed potatoes with cotton; allowed to take their blindfold off and watch the rest of the kids have fun!

The Eighth Grade elected their officers for the year, in late September. They are as follows:

Bob Richmond	President
Bud Tharp	Vice-President
Wanda Hawk	Secretary
Norma Hartranft	Treasurer
Marlene Leonhart	Reporter

Marlene Leonhart and Carol Billow were elected Junior High Cheerleaders for this year.

The Seventh Grade held a meeting and elected their officers as follows:

Nelda De Long	President
Joanne LaRowe	Vice-President
Norma Tharp	Secretary
Norman Morr	Treasurer
Mrs. Leever	Sponsor

The Seventh Grade met in the music room December 23, for a Christmas gift exchange.

On February 3, a Valentine party was held in the school gym. Games and a Valentine exchange were enjoyed. After the social hour, refreshments were served.

"THE MOST OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENT OF THE FIFTH AND SIXTH GRADES."

The most outstanding achievement of the fifth and sixth grade is their attitude toward one another in work and play. Good sportsmanship is an essential part in the school life of every student. When the going is rough it is rather difficult to admit that the umpire gave an unbaised opinion. When a student admits his shortcomings and then tries to improve himself without complaining it is a sure sign that he is a good sport. The pupils have shown themselves to be able to play and work together amiably. Very few quarrels have to be settled with fists. Might never makes right. Keep this spirit through life and you will find life much easier and happier.

THE MILLER BROTHERS

Joan Trenary, was one out of three girls from our county to attend Girl's State Fair School this year. This school was held from August 27th to September 5th at the Fair Grounds in Indianapolis during the State Fair. There were nearly 300 other girls there from all parts of the state. They stayed in the East section of the Youth Building. The girls attending this school were chosen to attend because of their outstanding record of achievement in 4-H clubs and other rural organizations.

This was a school of Home Economics in which they attended classes in Food Preparation, Serving Food, Care of Clothing, Care of Dormitory, Handicraft, and Recreation. As a whole, the recreation and handicraft classes were interesting to the group. These classes were under the supervision of outstanding personnel in their respective fields.

Many interesting lectures were given by outstanding people. They attended on an average of two lectures a morning as a rule. These were very interesting and very educational. Of course, they saw many things that would be practical in everyday life. They were accompanied by a State Cop who kept them safe from everything.

Their evening programs were more or less a social event in connection with the Boy's Camp. One evening they attended a style show, another evening they spent at the Grandstand, and another was spent in the Colosseum. These were enjoyed very much. The other evenings were spent by enjoying folk games with the Boy's Camp.

This school was very educational and interesting and it would be nice if more girls from around here could attend it. They really had a lot of fun although they were somewhat restricted and didn't get to see too much of the fair.

Carol Rosenbury was chosen Farm Bureau Queen of DeKalb County and went to the Indiana State Fair on Tuesday, September 2nd. She represented our county among 69 girls, and was chosen 20th in the State. The Insurance Department prepared a beautiful float and a banquet dinner for the county Queens at the State Fair. The Farm Bureau float, which featured our county Queen, won first prize at the county fair at Auburn this year.

The Tenth Annual Rural Youth Convention was held in Indianapolis, November 14th. The delegates from this county left November 13th. They arrived at the Washington Hotel around 4:30 P. M. and was entertained that evening by going out to see Sonja Henie.

On the morning of the 13th the convention started in the World War Memorial Building. In this session they were given the privilege of hearing Govenor Gates and Hasil Schnick, president of the Indian Farm Bureau, speak. The 1948 State Rural Youth officers were also elected by the voting delegates.

The afternoon session was held in the Murat Theatre in connection with the Farm Bureau Convention. They were honored by hearing Sally Butler, Roger Fleming and Wayne Guthrie speak.

That evening a banquet was held in the banquet room of the theatre. After the meal was served, they held the State Talk Fest in which our district, No. 2, represented by Harold Shultz, won second. Following this the '48 officers were impressively installed and took oath of their new office.

Everyone then went to the Egyptian rooms for recreation. About 11:30, the convention broke up.

The Senior boys in Vocational Agriculture spent Thursday, December 4th visiting Swift and Company and The International Livestock Exposition in Chicago. Swift's Chicago plant is the largest meat packing plant in the world and was viewed with considerable interest. Some 600 hogs, 150 beeves, 150 sheep and 150 calves are butchered each hour of the working day.

The International Livestock Exposition represents the last livestock show of the year and prize winners from all over the United States and Canada meet for the last time in an effort to come out on top with a "Grand Champion".

Joan and Carlton Curie went on a trip during vacation this year. They went through Illinois and Missouri to Arkansas, then on their way back they came through Kentucky and Tennessee. We guess they had a pretty swell time from some of the reports; also they brought back some cotton blossoms and Magnolia seed pods which were very pretty and interesting.

During Christmas vacation the senior girls got to work and had a pleasant surprise for the other girls in the school. They decorated the restroom. The dressing tables and stools wear matching full, pink gathered skirts. The tops of the tables are enameled white, and beruffled mirrors and gold curtains adorn the walls. Also, small, colorful wastebaskets are placed at various spots. It really looks nice, and the wish of the senior girls is that the girls who will become seniors as the years go by, keep up our project.

Different periods during the year the students have seen many interesting and educational movies and we are planning on seeing more soon. We hope that the kids who still have a few years yet will enjoy the movie projector as much as we have and that it will grow more and more educational in the years to come.

ODDS AND ENDS

JOAN--"Dr. Brown is too near-sighted for a good physicial."
CAROL--"How so?"
JOAN--"After he had treated one patient for three years for jaundice he found he was Chinese."

SUSON--"Why don't you resist temptation?"
ED--"I would, but I'm always afraid it may never come again."

PERCY--"There may be no marriages in heaven, but how about divorces?"
JANE--"None, dear boy; there will be no lawyers in heaven."

GARY--"Renting a cottage somewhere for your vacation?"
GEORGE--"Yes, but to tell the truth I don't know where--my wife makes me go under sealed orders, so none of my relatives will know where we are."

Dear Moron,

I received your letter which you never wrote and I set myself down with a pencil in hand at my new typewriter to write you a letter with my new pen. I didn't live where I had lived before I moved to where I live now. When you come to see me ask anyone where I live and no one will know? I am very sorry we live so far together wish we would be closer apart. We are having more weather this year than we had last year. We had a snow storm here tomorrow and it covered the ground with white sand so deep you could see the railroad tracks. Your Aunt Mary is in bed with the measler. She is upstairs in her room but she broke out just the same. My Aunt Helen died yesterday and is doing nicely today. I hope you are the same. Wilma has the mumps and she is pretty near deaths door and we hope that the angels pull her through. Liz and Herman got married yesterday; we would have been married today if Lewis's father wasn't out of work. I don't know where they are going to live. If you find out I started to Michigan the other day to see you and I saw a sign which said this sign will take you to Michigan so I got on the sign and set there for three hours and the darned thing didn't move. I am mailing you a coat by express. I cut off the buttons to make it lighter. You will find them in the left pocket. If you don't get this letter let me know and I will send it to you. I could have sent the six dollar's I owed you but I didn't think of it until after I sealed the envelope.

As you thought,
Little Moron

Send me a picture of your pan.
Will be in Detroit if not Hicksville Michigan 211st.
second cot, first hall, third floor.
The Sixth Tuesday in August 1979.

MAX--"You can't trust George at all."
LOLA--"That's what I hear--you can't trust him too far, and you can't trust him too near."

MARY--"Was that fellow McMurters shocked over the death of his mother-in-law?"
NANCY--"Shocked! He's to be electrocuted some time in March."

The Wonderful Class of "48"

The Wonderful class of "48" always came into the assembly late.
With their heads going around and around,
Their noses stuck toward the ground.
They would make lots of noise
You could always tell it was the boys;
They'd run up and down the steps,
Guess they tried to break their necks.

The girls were always calm and quiet,
Acted as if they'd been on a diet,
Then at the close of the period the bell would ring;
All the boys would begin to sing,
Run down the steps out of doors
Acted as if they were doing the evening chores.
The girls would take their time and walk.

Go to the classroom and find the boys throwing erasers and chalk.
In stepped the teacher with a great big smile,
And would make them take their seats down the aisle.
In the class the teacher would say,
Everyone look up this way,
The girls would listen for a little noise--
Turn around and smile at the boys.

At noon we'd all go up town and eat ice-cream,
Go back to school and day dream,
Period by period we'd work and play,
Prepare our lesson for another day.
Go to class the teacher would say,
Have you your report from yesterday?
We'd always look up laugh and grin,
Acted as if we'd had a drink of gin!

Go home at night help with the work
Pretend like we were a grocery clerk.
We have worked hard through the year,
The days are getting near and nearer;
Now our class shall part and go their own way,
Doing our own work day by day.
